THOUSANDS OF VETERANS HERE

Pennsylvania's Boys in Blue Back in Gettysburg to Witness Dedication of Monument in Honor of their Services to the Union.

Gettysburg is today the host of several thousand blue clad Civil War veterans all here for the dedication of the handsome new $140,000 memorial to the soldiers from Pennsylvania who took part in the battle July 1, 2 and 3, 1863.

The Keystone State men started to arrive in numbers on Saturday. Sunday regular and special trains brought several hundred more and today they have been literally pouring in until the numbers have mounted into the thousands. The arrangements made before this week to accommodate the crowds are proving a great help to the visitors who were wise enough to heed the invitation of the local entertainment committee to send in applications for boarding and lodging, but those who came here without reserving rooms are having no little difficulty in procuring "bed and board."

All day Sunday and today there could be seen groups of the gray haired veterans scattered about town discussing the days of '61 to '65 and many were the battles fought over again, many were the friendships renewed, and many were the stories of the stirring Civil War times revived. Some men met who had not seen each other since the close of the war and then would come the inevitable "Do you remember that time we repulsed the charge of the Louisiana Tigers?" or some similar question and the men would be good for a several hours' talk reviving incidents of the various battles.

The men from Pennsylvania have completely taken possession of the town. They are everywhere to be seen and on Sunday were specially noticeable in several of the churches of the town. A number of exceptionally good addresses were made by veterans in the Methodist church at an experience meeting following the usual Sunday morning service. About seventy five were present and of this number about twenty took part. In the College church in the evening 75 per cent of the congregation was composed of veterans and "America" and "God Save our Native Land" were two of the hymns sung while the sermon contained many references applying particularly to the soldiers.

That the visitors are welcome goes without saying. Gettysburg belongs to them or, as we used to say, "the city is theirs." The town is dear in the hearts of all the men from the Keystone state who are here and who have a right to feel that they are really a part of it.

The monument itself is proving a source of great delight to the veterans who believe it the most handsome memorial of its kind in the country. The tens of thousands of names on the tablet surrounding the triumphal arch are specially pleasing to the men who have come back for the dedication and the entire memorial is universally declared to be a great credit to the state and a fitting tribute to those who fought here.

The ceremonies on Tuesday afternoon will be entirely without pomp or show. There will be no parade preceding the exercises at the monument. There will be no salute fired and the dedication will partake entirely of the nature of a dignified and solemn ceremony. Following the dedication proper there will be a camp fire at which speeches will be made by Major General Sickles, Sheridan, Chamberlain, Wilson and others.

The 23d Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, Shaler's Brigade, 6th Army Corps, will hold a camp fire in the Court House tonight at 8 o'clock. All are welcome. A large number of other regimental reunions are scheduled.

BISHOP MCSHERRY'S VISIT

FAMILY REUNION HELD SATURDAY

Second Annual McIlheny-King Reunion Held at Presbyterian Church at Huntgetstown. Many States Represented.

The second annual reunion of the descendants of Robert and Agnes Crawford McIlheny and John and Jeanne King was held on Saturday at the Great Conewago church at Huntgetstown with almost 175 present including members of the family from Texas, Connecticut, Tennessee, Delaware and Maryland.

Many interesting facts concerning the family were brought out in the addresses made, one of which was the fact that Robert McIlheny was one of four brothers, three of whom were Presbyterian ministers who came to this country.

Shortly before noon luncheon was served in the old "kirk" which was founded by the McIlhenys and Kings. William A. McIlheny, president of the association, presided at the meeting which followed. It was opened by singing and prayer by Rev. Charles Dalzell. The necrology for the past year was read by Miss Annie Major, secretary, which showed the following deaths, Victor King McIlheny, Sr., of Pittsburgh; Margaret A. Knox, of Knoxlyn; King McIlheny, of Fairfield; Stewart Mc. Johnson, of Harrisburg. The report of the historical committee was made by William A. McIlheny, of Harrisburg; and an address by Rev. James B. King, of Eastford, Connecticut, followed.

Charles Hayes, of Pittsburgh, a son of Rev. I. N. Hayes, former pastor of the old kirk who married Rebecca King, made the next address. Mrs. Dill, a daughter of Rev. Mr. Hayes, followed and said that her mother used to sing in the church choir. She went to the organ and played while the audience sang "America" and her mother's favorite hymn "Rock of Ages." A short address by Mr. H. A. Allen, of Memphis, Tennessee, closed the afternoon's exercises. The old officers were re-elected and it was decided to hold next year's reunion at the same place.

Among those present from a distance were: Rev. James B. King, Eastford, Connecticut; Mrs. T. A. Cargill and daughter, Houston, Texas; Charles Hayes, wife and Mrs. Dill, of Pittsburgh; William Knox, wife and daughter, Wilmington, Delaware; Mrs. Bayly, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Allen, of Memphis, Tennessee; Mrs. Martha Craig head and son of Carlisle; Mrs. Rudolph Schick, of Philadelphia; William A. McIlheny, and family, of Harrisburg; John McIlheny and family, of Steelton; Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Gordon, Misses Martha and Laura Gordon, of Waynesboro; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Dunkle, of Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG DIOCESE CHANGES

Right Rev. John W. Shanahan, D. D., bishop of the diocese of Harrisburg, has made the following changes among the priests: Rev. P. Huegel, of St. Joseph's church, Bonneauville, to St. Francis's, Harrisburg; Rev. A. Breugeman, of St. Vincent's church, Hanover, to St. Andrew's, Waynesboro; Rev. J. O'Donnell, of St. Andrew's, Waynesboro, to St. Rose's, York; Rev. Francis J. Welsh, of St. Rose's to St. Vincent's, Hanover; Rev. George L. Rice, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church, York, to Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, Mt. Carmel; Rev. Mark E. Stock, from Our Lady of Mt. Carmel to St. Patrick's Carlisle; Rev. William McIlheny, from the Sacred Heart, Edgegrove, to St. Joseph's, Bonneauville; Rev. A. Brandt, from St. Lawrence's, Harrisburg, to St. Mary's Lebanon; Rev. H. Strickland, from St. Mary's Lebanon, to St. Patrick's York.

VETERAN HURT

M. C. McConnell, a veteran of the 10th Pennsylvania Reserves, stopping at the Bucktail headquarters, the Battlefield Hotel, was overtaken by an attack of vertigo this morning and fell backward down a flight of stairs, sustaining a severe injury to his skull. Dr. Dalbey was summoned and after rendering preliminary attention directed that the man be sent to the York Hospital which was done at one o'clock.

WANTED--homes for two little boys, orphans, aged 3 and 6 years. These children can be seen at the Alms House. The Board will pay $1.25 per week for their keeping until they are seven years old, after that time they can still remain by signing an agreement with the directors, till they are eighteen years old by giving them, at the expiration of that time a Bible, two suits of clothes, one must be new, and fifty dollars. You can receive information from the directors or steward, or better meet the board on directors' day, October 4th. H. W. Taylor, President of the Board.

PLAYED THE NEW FOOT BALL GAME

Gettysburg Followers of Foot Ball Saw how the New Game is played when Gettysburg Defeated Middletown on Saturday.

Gettysburg had its first taste of new foot ball on Saturday afternoon when the college team defeated Middletown, A. C. in a practice game by the score of 11 to 0.

The game under the new rules has been so changed that followers of the sport in Gettysburg claim it has been entirely spoiled for them.

The new game has proved exceedingly difficult for the teams to learn and in the contest on Nixon Field Saturday the local team was penalized after almost thirty per cent of the plays for some infraction of the rules. In other games throughout the state much the same trouble was experienced and those who follow the sport say that it will take several months until the teams can play smoothly under the new order of things.

Saturday's contest was an excellent practice for the Gettysburg boys, a large number of whom appeared for the first time in the uniform of the local college. Twenty six men were used during the game with Middletown and the snappy work of the opposing team provided the best kind of training for Gettysburg. Only twice did Gettysburg cross her opponents' goal line and that was in the second period, the game now being divided into four equal periods instead of into two halves as formerly. Both of these touchdowns were made by straight foot ball, the Gettysburg team failing utterly in the few attempts they made to use the forward pass. Middletown, on the contrary, used it to advantage several times.

Later in the game Gettysburg several times had the ball within the fifteen yard line but the boys from Dauphin County would always get together and prevent a score.

Other scores in which local people were interested were Ursinus 8, Pennsylvania 3; Indians 6, Villanova 0; Western Maryland 3, Dickinson 0.

COST US $766.10

The Adams County Commissioners have received the 80th annual report of the inspectors of the State penitentiary at Philadelphia, for the year 1909. It is a book of some 80 pages.

The largest number present during the year was 1599, the smallest 1477.

The book gives histories of the criminals, including those of Adams county but not one name is mentioned--all numbers.

It also gives a list of the prisoners having relatives in the penitentiary. The number attributing crime to drinking liquor is 245, out of the 566 received in 1909. Between the ages of 21 and 32 years, of 181 received, 66 never went to school, 410 had no trades, 88 were idle, 310 were in prison for their first time, 256 had previous imprisonment.

Among the occupants were found 14 barbers, 11 blacksmiths, 11 clerks, 11 cooks, 10 firemen, 8 farmers, 181 laborers, 16 machinists, 10 miners, 15 painters, 1 policeman, 10 salesmen, 5 shoemakers, 14 waiters, no printers. From Adams county there were remaining 16 prisoners. In 1909 12 were committed and 4 discharged. It cost to keep Adams county's prisoners in 1909, the sum of $766.10.

There were 2238 visits made to the dentist's office and the physician made 19,532 sick calls, 329 were treated in the hospital and eight died. Of the 566 admitted during the year 499 had attended Sunday School and 240 were members of churches. Of the 566, there were 499 who drank liquor.

HELD FIRST MEETING

The first educational meeting of Franklin township was held at Poplar Springs, September 23, Fred Taylor, teacher. Twelve teachers were present and one director. Recitations were given by Lillian King, Irene Lawver, Howard Lawver, Clyde Lawver, George King and Ivan Nangle. The following topics were discussed: "Interpreting the actions of pupils," Anna S. Hartman; "Arithmetic as outlined in the Pennsylvania course of study," Hiram Lady and E. Cecil Stover; "How does the home life influence the quality of instruction in the school?" J. Calvin Lady; "Critical moments in the schoolroom," Alma A. Henry.

BLACK BEAUTY

Neil Twomey's adaptation of Anna Sewell's famous book, "Black Beauty" which will be seen at Walter's Theatre, on Thursday evening, September 29, differs from the book in that Mr. Twomey has woven an original story dealing with real people around the central figure, Black Beauty, the horse, which forms the chief interest in the book. The story of the play tells a pretty love story, wherein the poor but noble man wins the love of the heroine, thwarting his rival, who is a rich man with a title. The latter naturally seeks to ruin the hero and obtains his revenge. The hero has one bad failing, an occasional leaning for the card table, which fault nearly causes his ruin as well as making the villain the owner of Black Beauty, but the horse is prevented from falling into the hands of a cruel master by winning the great race.

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Grew a Full Growth of Hair on a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have a full growth of hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

FINANCES HUNT FOR BRIDE AND LOSES

Count Von Auersperg Accused of Failing to Pay Debt.

Lalbach, Austria, Sept. 26.—Count Guido Von Auersperg, reputed owner of 100,000 acres and the employer of 5000 peasants, who visited the United States last April in search of a bride, has broken with his friend, Dr. Othmar Hegemann, who says that he financed the expedition.

"I loaned Auersperg 15,000 crowns ($3000) on two occasions," Dr. Hegemann said, "taking his notes, and when he came to me later with a story of his engagement to a millionaire's daughter I advanced him 20,000 crowns ($4000) more, without any writing on his pledge to repay the loan, with 4000 crowns ($800) bonus. So far he has not answered any of my demands or letters."

When Count Von Auersperg came to New York last spring it was reported that he was in search of a wife. More than 200 young women are said to have written him.

The count is only twenty-eight years old and has both political and literary aspirations. He has already written poems of considerable merit. Next year he will enter the Austrian diet. He has numerous titles and is heir to big estates in Schoenberg and Sessenberg, and some day will be among the largest land owners in Austria.

When the count was in the United States he went to Washington to pay his respects to President Taft and the Austrian ambassador.

WOMAN WINS AIR RECORD

As Passenger, Takes Part in Spectacular Bump-the-Bump Flight.

Quantum, Mass., Sept. 26.—It was announced at the Harvard aviation field that Miss Eleanor Sears had made a record-breaking flight for a woman passenger with Claude Grahame-White, an English aviator. In his big Farnum biplane, being up 11 minutes and 30 seconds, the longest time any woman passenger has been carried in an airship flight in this country.

The grand surprise came when, after cutting all kinds of curlicues at a 150-foot height, the aviator let the biplane slide on a sharp angle toward the ground, shutting off the power at the same time. When the machine struck the ground with a decided bump, it bounced into the air. Grahame-White slammed on the power, and the big propellers caught the machine up into full flight again. This was the first time this sort of aviation "bounce-the-bounce" had been seen here, and the spectators applauded.

Soothing Syrup Kills Baby.

Toledo, O., Sept. 26.—A few minutes after Mrs. John Bullendorf, 750 Tecumseh street, had given her seventeen-day-old daughter a dose of soothing syrup, the baby became unconscious. She died two hours later. The coroner said death was caused by morphine poisoning.

It is now pretty generally conceded that a dog going from a hogpen or feed lot where there is hog cholera may carry the germs to nearby farms.

In the same way the cholera germs may be transported on the boots of owners or hired help who may have the care of the hogs. Whatever else may be said of hog cholera, it is established beyond question that it is highly contagious germ disease and that to eradicate it or prevent its spread the same general methods

LOVE LETTERS TO FIGHT GIRL'S SUIT

Burning Epistles to be Used to Disprove $100,000 Claim.

THIRSTED TO KISS HIM

Millionaire William English Walling Summons to Court French Girl Who Declares He Promised to Marry Her.

New York, Sept. 26.—William English Walling, millionaire, author, socialist and settlement worker, husband of Anna Strunsky, the noted Russian authoress, and grandson of William H. English, of Indiana, who once ran for vice president of the United States, has decided to summon to the supreme court Miss Anna Bertha Grunspan, a French girl, to compel her to tell where, as she alleges, Walling promised to make her his wife.

Walling expects to prove to the court before trial that the young woman's claim of $100,000 damages is without basis, and he will prove this, he says, by exhibiting a large bundle of letters which Miss Grunspan had penned to him while they were simply friends.

According to Miss Grunspan's complaint, young Walling was engaged to her at the time of his marriage to the Russian authoress. At the time the suit for $100,000 damages was first brought by Miss Grunspan she alleged that the promise was made in France.

But after it had been pointed out that such a promise was not binding in this country an amended claim was filed.

Met in Paris. The motion for the examination of the plaintiff before trial will be made within a few days. Walling says he met Miss Grunspan in Paris five years ago, and that he befriended her when she came to him and begged him to intercede for her brother, who had been arrested as a revolutionist in St. Petersburg. It was because he succeeded in freeing him, Walling's lawyer says, Miss Grunspan became infatuated with the American millionaire.

When he married Miss Strunsky the young French woman followed him to this country and brought suit for $100,000 for alleged breach of promise.

Extracts from the letters written by Miss Grunspan will prove the most novel exhibits ever produced in a supreme court action for breach of promise.

The first letter to be read has this passage:

"To be near you and never to leave you would be the absolute ideal. . . . It is true that I have no right over you. You are my benefactor, my superior, that is, so it is my duty to submit to your will and not to you mine."

A Thirst to Kiss Him. Then follows a letter written to Mr. Walling July 13, 1905. In this Miss Grunspan says:

" . . . but now you are so far from me, and no more think of her who loves you, of her who has a thirst to kiss you. . . .

"I know you don't love me, you bad boy, but unfortunately I can't say the same, for I feel a charm when you are at my side, etc. . . .

Another letter, dated Oct. 29, 1905, will be introduced to prove that Mr. Walling made no promises to marry the writer. In this she wrote:

" . . . Permit me a reproach, deary (one must always speak frankly). Your ambition is badly placed; you think you would lower yourself if you loved a young girl. . . .

"I thank you just the same for the little affection that you have for me, for the confidence you have in me, and also for the kind intentions that you have toward me. I also have ambition, for when I love I would like it to be reciprocal and not to be repulsed. . . .

"I will not be the one to try to change your ideas on this subject, since you have been unwilling to love any woman up to the present; I do not dare to hope that you will have a preference for me, who, perhaps, am less than all these ladies that you have been able and have had the opportunity to meet in different countries. . . .

"The man that shows himself in different to the tenderness that one tries to give him is an egotist and a coward; for why was he created in the world? Certainly not to be shut up in a box and to keep to himself. . . . I love you as much, if not more, in spite of the fact that you have no affection for me."

The lawyers for the defense believe that once the judge hears the letters read he will throw the case out of court.

Killed in Mammoth Cave.

Mammoth Cave, Ky., Sept. 26.—The first fatal accident inside of Mammoth Cave in many years occurred when Mrs. Helen Day, of Wyoming, Pa., fell from a precipice, striking upon the granite ledge known as Purgatory. She fractured her skull and died later. Mrs. Day came here several days ago with a party of sightseers.

Slept With Dead Mother. Asbury Park, N. J., Sept. 26.—Miss Elizabeth Leonard slept beside her dead mother, Mrs. William Leonard, without knowing that her parent had died. Mrs. Leonard retired in apparent good health. Heart disease caused her death. Her husband is a Philadelphia printer.

"BIG HEAD" SHOCKS BARNES

Fires Last Pre-Convention Gun in Editorial in Albany Paper.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 26.—William Barnes, Jr., in an editorial makes a parting attack on Theodore Roosevelt before the meeting of the Republican state convention. He said:

"Theodore Roosevelt announces that he will succeed in overturning the recommendation of the Republican state committee to the state convention that Vice President Sherman be its temporary chairman.

"Why does he do it? Because Mr. Sherman and the members of the state committee dared to defy his orders.

"The argument advanced by Mr. Griscom that the members of the state committee who voted for Sherman were deceived is simply a plain lie. The only issue involved regarding the temporary chairmanship, therefore, is that Mr. Roosevelt did not have his way over a bauble which he desired.

This is the most shocking exhibition of big-headedness that we can recall in American politics. It is incredible to believe that the state convention will respect such a dictum."

GIRL'S MOUTH A QUARRY

Emits Flinty Particles That Puzzle Doctors and Dentists.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Sept. 26.—Five weeks ago the ten-year-old daughter of Will Green, a respected colored man, was attacked with exostosis of rocks which came from her teeth.

Upon examination it was found that on both sides of the jaw her teeth were badly decayed and that small rock formations were ejected from the cavities.

The girl's parents became alarmed and physicians were consulted, but they could give no explanation of the phenomenon. The girl was taken to the office of a dentist, and while seated in the operating chair she began to emit these rocks, some of them about the size of a small pea, and though the mouth was washed and thoroughly scrutinized and the child's hands held in her lap, these rocks continued to appear.

More than a dozen of these flinty substances have been emitted since last Monday. The child has little pain, and both physicians and dentists are much puzzled by the case. Several of the stones have been sent to the state chemist for analysis. The constitution of the particles is entirely different from the bone of the teeth, so that it cannot be surmised that it is the breaking off of particles of decayed teeth.

COIFFURE SAVES HER LIFE

It Cushions the Fall of Woman Leaping From Car.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 26.—The arrangement of her coiffure like those of the time of the French Louis Napoleon saved Miss Lena Perry from being killed.

When the controller of a trolley car flashed and burned out, Miss Perry gave one mighty leap off the car, landing on the back of her head on a sharp stone. As it was, a deep gash was inflicted.

Tramps Shun Pet Snake.

York, Pa., Sept. 26.—A six-foot blacksnake, captured by John P. Fry and John W. Graham, of Long Level, this summer, has been made a pet of by the latter and is now quite tame. As a discouragement to tramps its presence serves better than a watch dog.

It has been intensely interesting to note the gradual lowering of the trotting record from the time when the best performance was around 2:53, some ninety years ago, to the present season, when a horse covers a mile track without wind shield at a rate of more than thirty miles an hour. That the record will be still further lowered is not doubted, but it will be by quarters and eighths of seconds only.

Catarrh Germs

Move Out When Hyomei Moves In.

No stomach dosing. HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-mei) is made from the highest grade of eucalyptus, taken from the eucalyptus forests of inland Australia, and combined with the excellent antiseptics employed in the Listerian system.

In inland Australia the atmosphere is so impregnated with balsam thrown out by the eucalyptus trees that germs cannot live, and in consequence catarrh and consumption are unknown.

Breathe HYOMEI and get the very same, pleasant, healing, germ-killing air as you would get in the eucalyptus forests and kill the germs.

HYOMEI is sold by People's Drug Store and druggists everywhere, at $1.00 a complete outfit.

An outfit consists of a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple instructions for use. The inhaler will last a lifetime, but bear in mind if you need another bottle of HYOMEI, you can get it at druggists for only 50 cents. Guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup and throat troubles, and money back. Trial sample of Hyomei free to respecters of The Gettysburg Times. Address Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

A fine white elm shade tree which the writer frequently passes has come to grief owing to the fact that years ago, when the head of the tree was forming, care was not taken to prevent large limbs growing up and out from the same point in the trunk. In the case in question three were allowed to do so. A couple of years ago one of the three large branches was blown from the top in a heavy wind, and a short time since a big split appeared between the two remaining sections of the top. One of these is sure to come down soon, leaving a skeleton of what gave promise of being a shade tree of remarkable beauty and symmetry. The trouble might have been prevented when the tree was first set by so pruning it as to give a sturdy and well jointed frame. The same principle holds in the case of fruit trees, and poor heads having weak joints should be remedied while the tree is young.

Practical Patriotism.

Many a man who says he would be willing to die to save his country won't turn his hand over to help save his town. Yet it's the towns that make up the nation, and there is always an opportunity for real practical patriotism there. Especially is this true of the business of a town. Without the patronage of his fellow townsmen no merchant can live. Don't send your money out of town to the mail order houses. Give the local man a chance.

Probably the most expensive cigarette ever smoked was the one lit by a member of one of Uncle Sam's forest surveying parties in a heavily timbered western state and carelessly thrown into a bank of dry ferns. It is estimated that $2,000,000 worth of government and private timber was destroyed and several lives lost before this particular "smoke" was concluded. It is easy to suggest how the milk might have been kept from spilling, but the good horse sense of the superintendents of such surveying parties ought to suggest the same precaution with reference to the use of cigarettes in timber-dry forests as would be exercised by those employed in and about gunpowder factories and magazines.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. UNION MEN BACK UP EMPLOYERS

Appeal to Taft to Allow Railroads to Raise Rates.

DEMAND A SQUARE DEAL

Leaders Say It Marks Growth of Finesse Toward Companies That Pay the Wages—Represent 350,000 Workmen.

New York, Sept. 26.—The most significant council of railroad employees ever held in this country instructed, at the Amsterdam Opera House, the chiefs of the four great organizations of railroad workmen to go to Washington and appeal to the government of the United States for a square deal to their employers.

The meeting was characterized by the brotherhoods themselves as the most momentous since the first spike was driven into the first road for these reasons: "It was the first out and out pronouncement that the interests of employer and employee are identical." It was the first time the power of the unions have ever united to back up the railroad companies by going direct to the government. It marked, as the leaders of the brotherhood agreed, the growth of a spirit of fairness and mutual loyalty toward the companies that pay the wages. It served notice that, while the brotherhoods are not minded to be used for any political party, they intend to scrutinize the attitude of candidates for office (particularly for federal office) as to how employers as well as employees shall be treated by the lawmakers and law enforcers.

3000 Delegates Present.
Three thousand delegates, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, gathered at the Amsterdam Opera House, listened to speeches from Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the engineers; A. B. Garretson, president of the conductors; W. G. Lee, president of the trainmen; P. H. Morrissey, president of the American Railroad Investors' and Employees' association; G. H. Sines, vice president of the trainmen, and other executives.

The delegates came with the authority from 350,000 railroad workmen on sixty-three railroads east of the Mississippi river, and they represented 2,000,000 voters dependent for a livelihood on the railroad companies. After a four hours' conference they addressed a memorial to President Taft, the interstate commerce commission and all national and state law-making bodies. The memorial contains resolutions which support the proposal of the railroad companies that they be permitted to make a reasonable increase in rates.

The brotherhoods didn't take action suddenly or tumultuously. The proposal to stand by the companies had been talked over for several months in all the lodges. It had been threshed out thoroughly, and the delegates came to the council with one idea in mind, that the employees were in the same boat as the companies. They were in absolute harmony on all of the principal points brought up at the meeting. These were that:

Principal Points of Memorial.
Everything the railroads must buy had gone up in price and the only thing that they sell has gone down.

The companies are required to make a greater outlay every year for perfect service, safety appliances, wages and supplies.

The rates now permitted are too low to enable the companies to make a fair profit, pay fair wages or to continue to provide high class service to the public.

The employees can obtain fair wages only by supporting the companies in an appeal to the government to authorize railroad increases which experience has shown to be necessary.

The companies need the backing of their employees, especially in view of the constant agitation of manufacturers' associations, jobbers, middlemen and politicians for still lower rates.

There is no confession of weakness on the part of the unions in such support of the companies. They will continue to insist upon higher wages, more favorable working conditions, shorter hours and adequate compensation for workmen injured or killed in the service, but the companies must have more earning power to meet these demands.

There will be no public agitation, but candidates for office will be requested to answer questions concerning their attitude towards employers and employees.

JOHN ARBUCKLE.

Says He Can Raise the Maine For Small Cost.

WANTS TO RAISE MAINE

John Arbuckle Says He Can Save Government $150,000.

New York, Sept. 26.—John Arbuckle has written to President Taft, offering to raise the Maine for $150,000 less than the estimated cost of any other plan submitted. John F. O'Rourke, head of the O'Rourke Construction company, has said that he could bring the Maine into New York harbor under her own steam for about $600,000. Mr. Arbuckle's letter to the president is as follows:

"I can save the United States $150,000 in raising the Maine over any other proposed plan, with the assistance of Captain McAllister and Mechanical Engineer W. W. Witherspoon, the two ablest wrecking masters in the world. I respectfully ask you to appoint a commission of scientific men who have knowledge of marine affairs to make their report to you as to the most feasible plan for raising the Maine."

CADETS "SILENCED" CAPTAIN LONGAN

Entire Corps at West Point Being Disciplined.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The whole cadet corps was under discipline because of the way they received Captain Rufus E. Longan, an instructor in the tactical department, when he came in to dinner Saturday night.

As soon as Captain Longan appeared a silence fell over the whole body of cadets, and it continued until the order was given for the cadets to go to their barracks. This is the method of showing disapproval at the military academy and at Annapolis.

Captain Longan is an officer of the Eleventh Infantry and is new to West Point. He came here Sept. 1 last and was assigned to the department of tactics, which has to do with the discipline of the cadet corps. For some reason or other Captain Longan has fallen foul of the cadets and they showed it by dropping all conversation when he entered the dining hall.

The cadets were sent to their barracks forthwith, without having a chance to finish dinner. Saturday night is usually a time of liberty at the post, and the Saturday night hop had been arranged for. The order to go to barracks shut out all hope of the hop, and the girls, who had come to West Point from New York, Poughkeepsie and Albany, were left to wonder what had gone wrong with the cadets.

The cadets didn't have the least sign of liberty all night. They were locked in their rooms. At breakfast Sunday their resentment against Captain Longan had shown some abatement, but still it was enough to justify Colonel Sibley, commandant of the corps, in giving the order for barracks, dinner and supper and locked up. A board of inquiry has been ordered to investigate their conduct.

DYNAMITE KILLS LINEMAN

Man's Hands, Feet and Head Are Blown Away.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 26.—Philip McAlon, aged forty years, of Dalton, a lineman in the employ of the Northern Electric Railway company, had his hands, feet and part of his head blown away by an explosion of six sticks of dynamite.

He was working with some section hands on an extension of the railway. The dynamite was used to blow out post holes, and it was while he was lifting it that it dropped from his hands and exploded.

ELECTRIC CAR WRECKS AUTO

Three Killed in Grade Crossing Accident in New Jersey.

TWO ESCAPED UNHURT

Seashore Train Struck Motor Car at Gloucester and Two of the Victims Were Fearfully Mangled.

Camden, N. J., Sept. 26.—Three persons, two men and a woman, were instantly killed when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by an electric train on the West Jersey & Seashore railroad at an unprotected grade crossing in Gloucester City. There were five persons in the automobile, two of whom miraculously escaped unhurt.

Those killed were:

Clayton P. Davis, fifty years old, a member of the shipbuilding firm of Quigley, Davis & Corp. of Camden.

Mrs. William B. Mackey, twenty-seven years old, a daughter of Mr. Davis.

Charles P. Fest, fifty years old, of Philadelphia.

William B. Mackey, twenty-two years old, whose wife was killed, was the driver of the automobile. He and Myrtle Fest, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. Fest, although violently pitched from the car, were uninjured.

Crossing Unprotected.

The accident occurred at the Essex street crossing in Gloucester. The automobile party, which, with the Fests as guests, had been on a trip from Collingswood, was returning home, when the machine was hurled from the car tracks by the electric train.

The crossing, which is not protected by gates or by a flagman, is hidden from view by high buildings on both sides of the street. Mackey, therefore, not seeing the crossing, drove the car on the tracks. The electric train lifted it from the tracks and dashed the car and its occupants against a telegraph pole. The automobile was demolished and how Mackey and Miss Fest were unharmed is inexplicable. Passengers on the electric train said that they crossed the grade crossing at a high rate of speed.

The bodies of Davis and Fest were terribly crushed and broken. It was quickly seen that they had been killed, their skulls having been fractured in several places. On the chance that there might still be some life left in Mrs. Mackey's body, she was taken at once to Cooper hospital, Camden. There it was said that she must have died at once.

The bodies were sent to the Camden morgue, where they were identified by Mrs. Clayton P. Davis, who had been notified of the fatalities.

DRUNKEN WOMAN'S CRIME

Kills Baby by Hurling It Out of the Window.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Mrs. Joseph Whitman asked Miss Anna L. Hall, who has rooms across from her at 46 Johnson's park, to tend her baby, Mildred, one year old, until noon, as she had to go out washing.

Miss Hall agreed, but the baby made such a fuss after some hours of neglect that her drunken caretaker lost patience and hurled it out of the window. The child landed on the stone flagging and cracked its skull.

It lived for two hours. Little boys carried the bleeding baby to its mother as she worked over the steaming tub in a nearby house. She became frantic with grief.

The police arrested Miss Hall. She is about fifty-four years old, and ever since her mother's death, four months ago, when a $5000 legacy fell to her, she has been drinking heavily. She was so drunk when taken into custody that the police had to carry her from the patrol wagon to the station house.

SHOOTING AN ACCIDENT

Young Railroad Man, Dying, Assures His Father, J. C. Stubbs.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 26.—In a weak whisper Donald P. Stubbs, general agent of the Union Pacific railroad here, told his father that the probably mortal wound that he received above the heart Saturday night was accidental.

The father, John C. Stubbs, traffic director of the Southern Pacific railroad, came here on a special train as soon as he learned of the finding of his son in the railroad offices, apparently dying of a bullet wound.

"My son seemed anxious for me to know that he shot himself accidentally," said Mr. Stubbs. "He seemed discouraged and did not appear to care whether he lived or not. His only fault was a weakness for drink and I am convinced that this was responsible for the accident. There was no reason for him to attempt self-destruction."

Young Stubbs was married to Miss Marguerite Wheeler, of New York, last June, and after the honeymoon trip came here to accept the newly created post of general agent of the Union Pacific for this territory.

Town May Be Evgulfed.

Lead, S. D., Sept. 26.—The Homestead mine caved in from the 200-foot level to the surface. Buildings in the center of the city are being vacated.

With the short crop of hay which was raised in so many sections this year there ought to be a demand at good prices for all the surplus bright, well cured corn fodder which the forehanded man will secure.

Dwellers along country roads will certainly appreciate the power of observation of the writer who in distinguishing between the "quick" and the "dead," defined the former as comprising those who were able to get out

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Danny Maher, Who Will Quit the Saddle.

Danny Maher, the phenomenal American jockey, will retire at the end of the present season, due to his steadily increasing weight. Maher, like Winnie O'Connor, is going in for cross country weight. Maher likewise will follow the hounds and do a little gentleman's riding, but the turf in the future will see little of him save as a spectator.

"I am getting to the end of my riding days quickly now," said Maher. "I have risen in my profession, and I think I may say without egotism that I have got about all out of it possible. For over ten years I have been riding steadily. I have amassed a fortune, and I now own a magnificent country home and am ready to leave future turf honors to the youngsters."

Beaupre Breaking Records.

Along with annexing most of the big English titles at swimming, Beaupre, the Australian, has started to make history in the record line. He is not attacking any obscure marks by mediocre performers, but is going for the records of the cracks. A few weeks ago he wiped off three previous marks at the Exeter baths, London, in one night. He first attacked the 200 meters, which he swam in 2 minutes 30 seconds. The 300 yards was the next to receive the attention of the Australian, and he swam it in 3 minutes 30 seconds. The best English record for this distance was 3 minutes 31 1/2 seconds, by T. S. Battersby last year.

It was in the 300 meters that Beaupre gave his greatest display of speed, and he knocked a big slice off all world's records. His time was 3 minutes 50 1/2 seconds, and nothing like this has ever been achieved, even with a tide or indoors.

Searle Wonderful Single Sculler.

Coach Jim Wray of Harvard says: "I think Howard Searle, who succeeded Beach as the sculling champion, was the greatest single sculler that ever sat in a boat. He rowed rings around Beach in Australia after Beach had beaten Edward Hanlan and Jake Gaudaur. Then Searle went to England and rowed William O'Connor on the Thames. O'Connor was the best man England ever produced, and Searle's Australian backers had no trouble betting $50,000 on their man. The Australian won the race hands down. Searle died a few months after this race. Searle was succeeded as champion by James Stansbury, another Australian. Sure thing gamblers queered professional rowing in England just like they did in this country."

Shrubb Coaching Harvard.

If Harvard fails to win the intercollegiate cross country championship this year it will not be due to improper coaching.

The Atlantic association has engaged Alfred Shrubb, the noted distance runner, and if he can impart to the Crimson runners some of the things he knows about the game Harvard will clean up in November.

In 1908 Shrubb coached the Harvard cross country squad with success, Harvard making a much better record than previously or since in the intercollegiate. It was under his tutelage that Herbert Jacques showed such good promise as a cross country runner.

Ottawa Crew Going to Henley.

It is possible that the Ottawa eight oared crew will go to Henley next season in quest of the Grand Challenge cup. The Ottawa council has already voted $500 toward the project. It was understood that this would be done if the Ottawa eight won in the senior event at Washington. The Canadians were successful, and the trip is to be in the nature of a reward.

Big Sculling Match Planned.

A sculling match for the world's championship is pending between Champion Armit and Eddie Durran. Armit will pass through Canada on his way to England, where he has another race scheduled with Barry on the Thames. Negotiations are under way to get Armit to stop off at Toronto and meet Durran.

Importing Burdock Root.

Notwithstanding the thousands of acres of burdock that yearly mature their unsightly crop of seed in vacant places all over the country, we nevertheless import annually from European countries 125,000 pounds of dried burdock root, those preparing it receiving from 3 to 8 cents per pound for it.

Lanier of the Cavalry

Or,
A Week's Arrest

By GENERAL CHARLES KING,

Author of "The Colonel's Daughter," "Foes In Ambush," Etc.

Copyright, 1900, by J. B. Lippincott Company

Was it in partial reparation for the rapine, the swindling and stealing dealt out by her pilgrim forefathers to the Indian of the east that Aunt Agnes had become the vehement champion of the Indian of the west? President of a famous peace society was she and secretary of the Standish branch of the Friends of the Red Man—a race whom the original and redoubtable Miles had spitted and skewered and shot without stint or discrimination. And now was Aunt Agnes hastening westward with her brother to reclaim their one ewe lamb from the wolf pack of the wilds and incidentally to see for herself something of the haunts and habits of the red brother, in whose behalf these last six months her voice

"DO YOU MEAN COLONEL BUTTON ACCUSED MR. LANIER?"

GET THE MOST

Likewise the best! This is especially good advice when one comes to buy a big Sunday newspaper. Aside from its many departments of news, romance, fiction, art, comedy, politics, &c., the words and music of a late song success will go free as a feature of next Sunday's New York World. The song in question is "The Gay Gossoon," made famous by Fisk O'Hara in the new Irish musical romance, "The Wearing of the Green." Add this popular song to your musical collection. But it will be best to order next Sunday's New York World from your newsdealer today.

had been uplifted time and again. Sumter came in, cheery and laughing, for the late family breakfast. Guard mounting was long over, but he had been detained by the colonel.

"It is almost comical," said he, "to see Button's delight in those letters in the New York papers. He's as curious now to know the author of those as he was furious at the supposed author of the others."

"What others?" faltered Miriam Arnold.

"Some bitter attacks on him that appeared in the Boston and Philadelphia papers about that night surprise of Lone Wolf's village—the one he accused Mr. Lanier of having started."

"Accused Mr. Lanier?" And Miriam Arnold, with consternation in her voice, was half rising from the table.

"I had thought it best to say nothing to you about it, Miriam, dear," said Mrs. Sumter gently.

"But, Mrs. Sumter—captain!" interrupted Miriam, wild eyed. "Do you mean Colonel Button accused Mr. Lanier of those letters?"

"That was the backbone of his grievance against Lanier," said Sumter. "Why?"

"And he didn't deny it—didn't tell what he knew?"

"Denied it, yes, but refused to tell what he knew—said it came in such a way he could not tell. Why, Miriam, what do you know?"

For a moment it looked as though she were on the verge of a hysterical breakdown. Kate sprang to her side and threw an arm around her, but with gallant effort she regained self control.

"I know just who wrote those wicked stories, and I told Mr. Lanier, and I know—and I'm ashamed I ever had to know—who first told them."

CHAPTER VIII.

STANNARD had been summoned to Omaha, much to Button's curiosity and disquiet. Mrs. Stannard was none the less radiant. A romance was unfolding right under her roof. Her patient was sitting up in a sunny parlor. At just about 4 p. m., when most people were gone, Mrs. Sumter came quietly, cheerily, conveying her two girls, and presently Bob Lanier was smiling into the eyes of Miriam Arnold.

Not since the night of the fire had he set eyes on her. Miriam looked as though she had been seriously ill. Kate Sumter had given him only hurried and almost embarrassed words of greeting. Mrs. Sumter, however, had extended both her hands in an impulse of loyal liking and friendship, and it is doubtful if Bob even saw the daughter's face. His eyes had flitted almost instantly to Miriam Arnold. A few minutes of swift, purposeless chat ensued. Mrs. Stannard and Mrs. Sumter doing most of it. Then some three women seemed to drift away and become engrossed in matters of their own over by the Navajo covered lounge, and then Miriam lifted up her eyes and looked one moment into the young soldier's face.

"It's the first chance I've had to thank you for the dance we didn't finish," said he, noting with a thrill the tremor of the little hand that fluttered for that moment in his grasp.

"Do you think it a thing to be thankful for? I don't."

"I wouldn't have lost it for a month's pay."

"How very much more than that you may lose!" said she. "Do you think I could have danced with you if I had dreamed what—what you were doing?"

"You were dancing like a dream," said he. "Do you mean I was dancing like a nightmare?"

"You were doing what was sure to involve you in grave trouble, and it wasn't kind to me, Mr. Lanier."

"I'm all contrition for the anxiety it caused you, Miss Miriam, and for absolutely nothing else. I wish you to know that I did nothing unusual. Colonel Button was angry with me for a very different matter."

One moment she was silent. Then, with lips that quivered in spite of her effort—a quiver that he saw and that set his heart to bounding madly—with lowered voice she hurried on: "And that, too, involves me or mine. And you—then uplifting her swimming eyes—"you would not tell."

And then the barrier of his pride was swept away.

"Miriam!" he cried, his hands eagerly seeking and seizing hers, only faintly resisting. "There was no need to tell." He was lifting her hands to his heart, and as he drew them he was drawing her. She had to come, her long, curling lashes sweeping the soft cheeks, now once more blushing like the dawn. "Oh, Mr. Lanier!" he heard her murmur as though pleading and warning. Then his dark eyes, glowing and joyful, fastened on hers, and quick and fervent came the next words: "There is only one thing that need be told—that must be told, because I've just been brimming over with it all these weeks" (ah, how the bonny head was drooping now, but drooping toward him), "and now I can keep it back no longer. Miriam, Miriam, I love you—I love you! Have you nothing to tell me?"

One instant of thrilling suspense, then with a sob welling up from her burdened heart the barrier of her pride and reserve went as his had gone a moment ago. "Oh, you know—you know it! Who hasn't known it since that awful night?" she cried and then found herself folded, weeping uncontrollably, almost deliriously, in his arms, his lips raining kisses on the warm, wet cheeks. A moment he held her closely wrapped to his heart, then gradually, yet with irresistible power, turned upward the tear stained, blushing, exquisite face so that he could feast his eyes upon her beauty. Then with joy unutterable his lips sank upon the soft, quivering mouth in the first love kiss she had ever known, and their troubles vanished into heaven at the touch.

Mrs. Stannard, you were a jewel and a general. Now, how about the major?"

"For conference with the judge and vocate of the department," read the order that summoned him, and from that conference forth went our doughty dragon in search of conquest. "It is understood," said the officials, "that you know the circumstances under which Lieutenant Lanier became responsible for the money borrowed at Laramie by or for that young Mr. Lowndes, alias that young him."

There were other matters, but that came up first. Stannard knew and was quite willing to set forth with a plain clothes member of the Omaha force on a mission for and from headquarters. He found it all known to the police. Lowndes had run through the purse of his eastern kindred two years before. Lowndes had been transported to a cattle ranch near Fort Cushing in hopes of permanent benefit, but speedily neglected the range for the more congenial society of the fort. He was well born and bred. He went on the campaign for excitement and took to gambling among the scouts and packers and sergeants, for the officers had soon cold shouldered him. But he was a college man, a secret society man, as had been Lieutenant Lanier before entering the Point.

Since the campaign Lowndes had been going from bad to worse, had gambled away the money sent him by his relatives, and they were now sorely anxious about him. Moreover, he was needed as a material witness for the defense in the case of Lieutenant Lanier.

And even as the story was being told there came bounding down the broad stairway from above a slender, well built youth. It was the erect, jaunty carriage that caught the major's eye. In build, bearing and gait the approaching stranger was Bob Lanier all over.

"Rawdon!" he cried.

A wave of color, it is true, swept instantly to the young fellow's temples. Quickly he whirled about; courteously he raised his cap.

"I beg the major's pardon," said he. "I did not expect him here and had never seen him in civilian dress."

And now the detective, too, was on his feet and curiously noting the pair.

"You're on furlough, I understand, but I heard—my wife said—you were in Chicago."

"Mrs. Stannard was right, sir. My wife and her father are there now, visiting my sister. Dr. Mayhew told me of the charges against Lieutenant Lanier, and that is what brings me back at once."

"Going back at once?" began the major, mollified, yet mystified. "I presume you know more of these matters than any one else."

"With possibly two exceptions, sir. I hope to nab one of them here."

"Lowndes?" queried Stannard.

"Lowndes," answered Rawdon.

"Then you're just the man we want."

That afternoon as the Union Pacific express stood ready at the Union station for the start there boarded one of the sleepers a burly, thickset, bluff mannered man in a huge fur overcoat, closely followed by two younger companions. One of these latter, erect and graceful in bearing, alert and quick in every movement, with clear cut and handsome features, was dressed with care and taste, evidently a man accustomed to metropolitan scenes and society. The other, a youth of probably his own age, though looking older, was shabby, with a dejected, down at the heel expression to his entire personality that told in fallibility of failure and humiliation.

"Better pull off that overcoat and make yourself comfortable, Lowndes," said the younger man. "You're a long journey ahead."

Whereat a tall, spare, elderly gentleman in an adjoining section slowly lowered his newspaper and turned half round, while a tall, spare, elderly, sharp featured woman beside him in prim traveling garb sprang from her
